Help build what was lost in the Lagrotte community!

Meet Norcilia Louis and her Family

Seven years ago, Norcilia lost her husband, mother, sister, nieces, and nephew in Haiti's devastating earthquake. Left on her own with five children, she still struggles to provide the basics for her children. When one of them, Ronald, finished primary school, Norcilia could not afford $500 for him to attend high school in another community. Fortunately, Haiti on the Rise was able to pay for Ronald's schooling and find other supporters to fund primary schooling for Ronald's younger sister, Katiana.

Norcilia is just one mother in the devastated communities of Haiti who cannot afford to send her children to school without assistance, because there is no longer an affordable school where they live. Haiti on the Rise is working with Lagrotte community leaders to rebuild what was lost in 2010, including a high school, so that children like Ronald can get an education — improving their lives, the lives of their family, and raising up the entire community. Working together, we can change lives.

Deadline for registration is February 1st. Space is limited.
